

Your Way to us in Marburg

From Marburg to the Behringwerke Site

The university town of Marburg is located in central Hesse between Frankfurt am Main and Kassel. You can easily reach Marburg by train or car. To get from Marburg to the CSL Behring headquarters, we recommend taking public transportation (bus lines 5, 14 directly from the main train station) or driving.

Parking spaces for cars are available near the gates and are well signposted.

The distance between the two plant sections, the main plant and Görzhäuser Hof, is about 3.5 km.

We wish you a pleasant journey.

From the North:

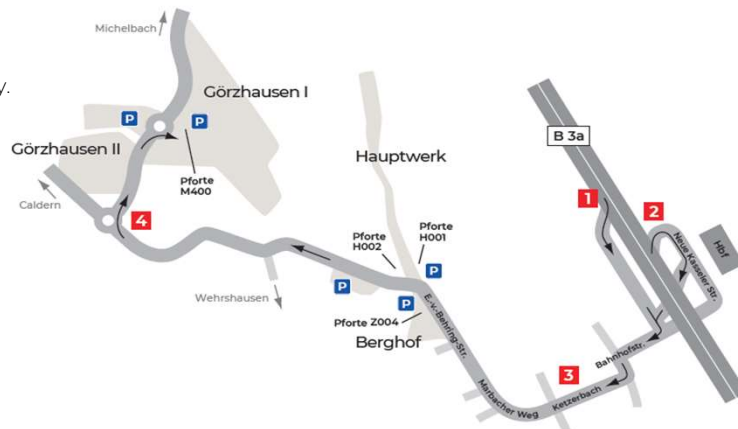

Drive on the city highway (B3) towards Marburg/Gießen until the Marburg Bahnhofstraße exit. Leave the highway and turn right into Bahnhofstraße towards the city center. 1

From the South:

Drive on the city highway (B3) towards Marburg/Kassel until the Marburg Bahnhofstraße exit. Leave the highway here and turn right into Neue Kasseler Straße. Follow the priority road and turn right from Neue Kasseler Straße towards Bahnhofstraße, which leads you to the city center. 2

... and further through the city center:

Stay in the right lane. After about 1 km, Bahnhofstraße merges into Elisabethstraße (a left-turning priority road). After about 200 m, turn right into Ketznerbach. 3 Continue straight ahead; you will then reach Emil-von-Behring-Straße via Marbacher Weg, which leads directly to our main plant. Here is part of the production and research of CSL Behring GmbH. You can reach the Görzhäuser Hof/Görzhäuser I plant section by driving past the main plant towards Michelbach. After about 2 km, turn right at the first and then the second roundabout. 4
